Recently, the EPA provided a list of recommended and approved disinfectants for our fight against COVID-19 through the Office of Chemical Safety and Pollution Prevention. There were a few pages listed of approved products.

Like many of our contemporaries in the industry, Betco sub-registers our disinfectant compounds, from specialized Raw Goods manufacturers, that we include in our chemical formulations. The list includes the compounds produced from these manufacturers, not the Betco Brand Name, for that same compound may be found in competitive brands, as well. Unless you are the primary disinfectant registrant, the parent company must be displayed on this list.

Betco does have an EPA ID number that is added on at the end of the primary EPA Registration Number, so that you can certify that the proper compound is attributed to a certain product. Below is the EPA primary listing from the Press Release, with our corresponding branded product listed below. Betco's EPA ID number is #4170, and is listed on all of our disinfectant labels and SDS sheets for reference.
